Re: FDLI Food and Dietary Supplement Enforcement Session

Dear Colleague:

At past sessions of the annual FDLI Enforcement & Litigation Conference, we have heard complaints that the sessions focused too much on drugs and medical devices, and not enough on foods and dietary supplements. For the upcoming Enforcement Conference, we are including a two-hour breakout session, which I will chair, devoted exclusively to food and dietary supplements. At this breakout session, experts (listed below) will discuss the new enforcement and compliance requirements specifically relating to foods and dietary supplements. In addition, there will be interesting sessions on Compliance, Criminal Cases, What Sparks an Investigation, and Recalls, all of which are becoming more and more relevant to food and dietary supplement companies. If you attend, you will hear from key government, corporate and private bar leaders, as well as learn what new FDA Chief Counsel Gerald Masoudi has planned in the way of enforcement.

Food and Dietary Supplement Breakout Session Speakers:

Joseph R. Baca, Director, Office of Food Safety, CFSAN, FDA

Gary L. Coody, National Health Fraud Coordinator, Office of Enforcement, ORA, FDA

Richard J. Leighton, Partner, Keller & Heckman

Laura M. Tarantino, PhD, Director, Office of Food Additive Safety, CFSAN, FDA

Mark S. Ullman, Partner, Ullman Shapiro & Ullman

Don't miss this year's 6th Annual Enforcement and Litigation Conference, to be held Feb 19-20 at the L'Enfant Plaza Hotel in Washington, DC. For a complete agenda, visit www.fdi.org/conf/430 or call FDLI at 202/371-1420 or 800/956-6293.

Sincerely,

A. Wes Siegner, Jr.

Coming to an industry near you: FDA Enforcement

FDA is gearing up its enforcement powers so that the types of aggressive enforcement activities traditionally aimed at drug and device companies may be visited on food and dietary supplement companies. How these methods have affected the pharmaceutical and medical device industries and how they may affect the food and dietary supplement industries will be discussed at the 6th Annual Conference on Enforcement & Litigation. There will be a two-hour breakout session that will discuss enforcement and litigation issues specifically as they relate to food and dietary supplement companies.

6th Annual Conference on Enforcement & Litigation
Consent Decrees, Criminal Cases, and Corporate Integrity Agreements

February 19-20, 2008 | L'Enfant Plaza Hotel | Washington, D.C.

To learn how your peers are dealing with these increasingly commonplace – yet strict – enforcement measures, you need to attend this Conference.
